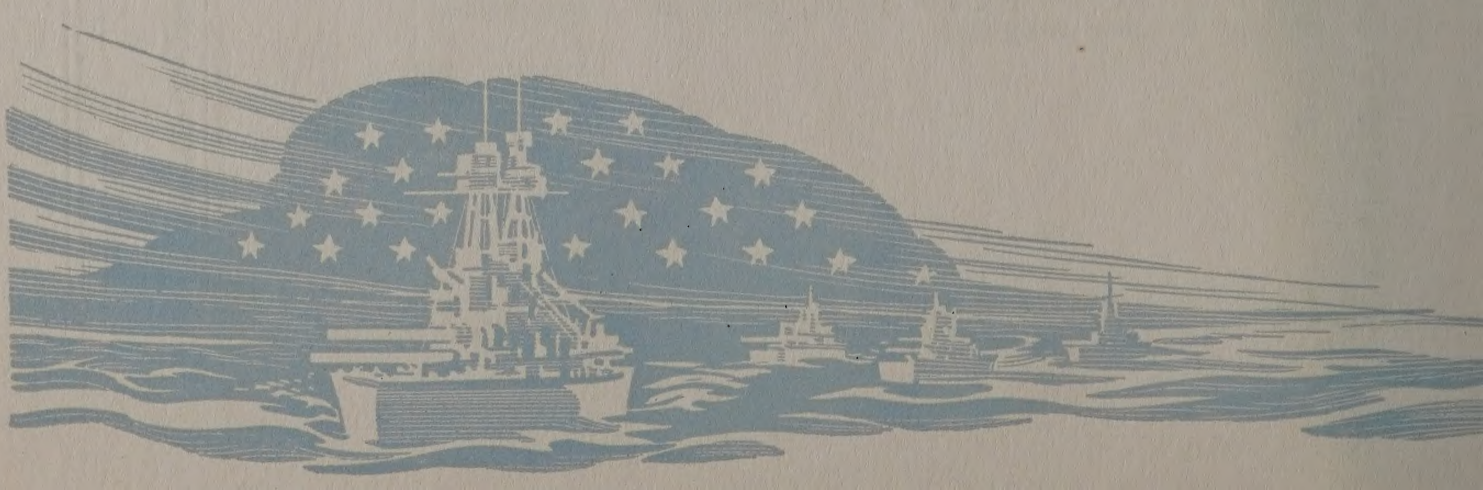
DEDICATION

The Senior Class of 1942 dedicates "The ANCHOR" to the Janitor of the Chatham School, Mr. M. D. Ripley, better known to everyone as "Rip", for his kind thoughtfulness in keeping the school-house clean and comfortable; his pleasant personality and ability to get along well with everyone; his patience with us during play practices, school parties and other social gatherings; his willingness to help those who need help and last but not least, doing his share in the present defense program.



The ANCHOR

The main purpose of an anchor is to safegard the ship to which it is attached. The name "The ANCHOR" was given this book for the reason, that when in years to come those of you who keep and cherish this book will find it an anchor for you back to the sea of peace and safety, your high school years in Chatham.

When you are alone and feeling blue--say perhaps twenty-five years from now--if you can once again take down this book, probably dust covered and well worn from usage, read over the names of kids you yourself used to know, and once more look at the faces of your teachers and friends, I am sure you will somehow feel anchored to the past. This is the desire of the 1942 Senior Class of Chatham High to produce for you an annual that you will be proud of, one which will help ease away the sorrows that doubtless will come in a world which now promises so little joy and so much sacrifice, before our victory is complete.

Doubtless many of you will remember the sad days as well as the bright days when you refresh your memories by way of this annual. That wouldn't be altogether out of place, for a real anchor sees storms as well as sunshine. The spirit behind "The ANCHOR" is to help your little ship through the stormy sea of life. This annual itself saw many stormy days before it saw the press, but for whatever clouds there may have been there has been a share of sunshine, too.

It is the sincere wish of every member of this class that we may have fulfilled our duty to Chatham High, to its teachers, our parents and classmates, and last but not least, to you our friends, when you, in the future, may derive some value from "The ANCHOR". If you find within these covers the joy and comfort for which we are hoping so fervently, we shall consider our time and effort will spent and rewarded.

In agreement with our general patriotic theme of the year, we have decided upon "The ANCHOR" because of our motto, to some extent. Thus goes our motto:

"We have crossed the bay; the ocean lies before us."

Poem For This Class of "42"

Once more we salute you,
Dear Classmates and friends,
In this last year of high school,
Where our fellowship ends.

We also salute you,
Our joys and our sorrows;
I know we'll remember you
In the coming to-morrows.

We've known hours of sadness
But more years of joy
And we've harbored them all,
Each girl and each boy.

We met as strangers
And we're parting as pals;
May we meet in the future
All us Guys and us Gals!

VALEDICTORY

It was twelve years ago last September when most of the present Senior entered their first year of school. Only eight years later we anxiously stepped forward as "Freshmen", into our first year of high school. Year after year as we added one more chapter to our book of education we have looked forward to returning and joyously joining our classmates the next fall. Tonight as we graduate, it dawns upon us, that we can never again look forward to another time or place in which we can reunite and spend such citing, successful and outstanding year of life as we have while completing our Senior year at Chatham.

As a basketball team stands together, through victory and defeat, our class has stood together through the trials of work as well as play, to reach this victory-----graduation.

Receiving our diplomas tonight will undoubtedly be the most important enevt in our lives. This diploma will stand as a symbol, representing our life at school. It will portray not only our joys and laughter but also. our quarrles and tears.

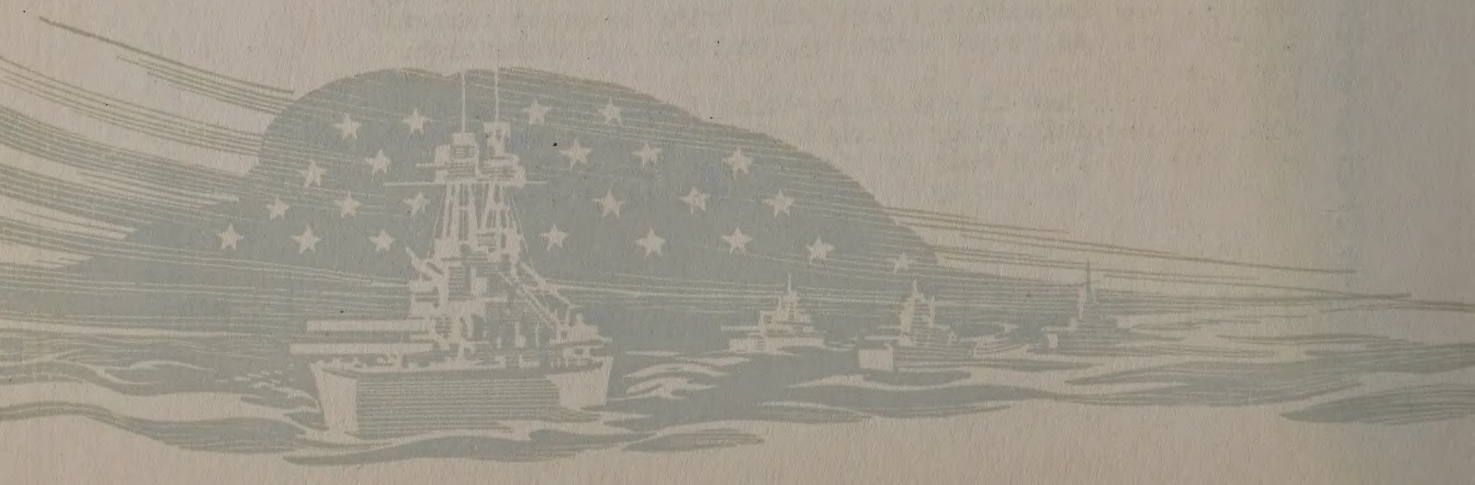
I'm sure we can all look back over the past, and recall certain instances which made us feel, at some time or another, like quitting school and doing something more exciting. But is there anything that can so carefully build the youth of an individual as a high school education? Some might think so, but I say No. Is there anyone who can put aside twelve years of school and truthfully say that he has wasted his time? He can not. That is the reason I can't see anyone throwing away the chance of recieving a diploma, when it means so much to me. When I receive MY diploma, I'll want to be able to hold it in my hand and say:

I hold in my hand a valuable paper,
The work of twelve long years
A paper I have wanted and waited for
Sometimes with laughter and sometimes with tears.

I hold in my hand something more than a paper
Something which tells of the dreams of my youth;
It is the symbol of my education,
A symbol of honor, a symbol of truth.

I hold in my hand a very dear treasure
Something more precious than money could buy,
Something I know will bring me great pleasure
As youth passes on, and old age draws nigh.

What is the thing which I hold in my hand
This paper which I wish the whole world could see?
It is only my high school diploma,
But for my future, it will serve as a key.



1942

SALUTATORY

What a vast amount of thought can be expressed in those few words! "We have crossed the bay: The ocean lies before us." We have completed one task: let us view those from which we may choose for our next undertaking. When first we enter school we are merely rough timber in the hands of the teachers who have been put there for the purpose of building good and sturdy ships; our lives. What they do and what we ourselves permit them to accomplish becomes the masterpiece of workmanship.

During the elementary years of schooling the ship is taking form, receiving careful planning, for it must be strong and well founded. If there is a weak plank, it must be replaced with something of value. When the little ship reaches the more advanced aritsans, the high school teachers, it is awakened to the fact more clearly that it has a great task to perform and it begins to take on poise, grace and beauty.

A small fleet of destroyers was leaving New York harbor to take its position in a huge convoy which was to embark on a long and dangerous voyage. As they passed the gigantic statue of Liberty, the symbol of what all men hope and pray for, freedom, one little destroyer said quietly to those about him, "We have crossed the bay; the ocean lies before us. We have been built be master craftsmen, it is our job to carry on." Those little boats disappeared over the horizon, gone from our view. But in the near future they would appear to those on the other shore and give them faith as we had placed our faith in them at their parting. There were dangers, as there are for all little things in this large and changing world in which we live.

Today another group leaves port, some of them may never again know the peace and security which the past years of their lives have offered. Today the 1942 class of Chatham High completes its crossing of the bay and enters on the morrow the life long voyage across the ocean. Today we leave behind us the shelter of the land on either side; Tomorrow we embark upon our voyage across the uncertain ocean of the future--called the "Sea of Life."

We are not here today as examples of what we ourselves have accomplished. We are here for your approval or disapproval of the work which our builders have done. It is true we can help the builders by being more agreeable material but the task itself is for the builder. When a class is graduated from any school it should be so well versed in the world outlook that it need have no fear for the future. Each member of this class should have faith enough in himself and in those with whom he associates that the unknown future could not possibly strike fear into his heart. With all the constant remembrances of hardships which have come and will come in the future he need not dread the morrow: for then he shall have his part in the making of the peace that will rule the world when the victory is ours. We cannot face machine guns and bombers with faith but we must fight fire with fire.

--Judith Williams

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

One fine day in September, in the year nineteen hundred thirty, the Chatham School house was brightened by twenty shining new faces- the girls hadn't yet learned how to use powder. During the first eight years of school we gained several new members and lost several. Among those that we gained in the grades were Elsie Hovanec in the sixth grade, Gladys Aungst in the seventh, and Evalester McVicker and Rosemary Hofstetter in the eighth.

It was in the ninth grade that we really got going. Our number increased by four. They were Kenneth Welsh, Jean Safreed, Cecelia Rostas, and Dale Litman, but he left at the end of the year.

Our graduation into high school brought us Ivan Fahler, all the way from New York. We wonder if he was just waiting for that event.

Our first Junior play, "The Nutt Family," was presented by the class on November 15, 1940. On March 28, 1941 we presented our second play, "Mother-in-Law Blues." Near the end of the year Harold Nash came to us from Medina. We thought we had a good recruit for plays, but he failed to appear in our Senior year. Our Junior & Senior Banquet was held on May 18, 1941. The banquet was served at the Nanking Restaurant in Cleveland. We then went to the Palace Theater and saw Horace Hiedt and his Musical Knights.

In our Senior year we had a total of sixteen members. Eight of them have been here for all twelve years of their schooling. They are: Millicent Kreiger, Charlene Ridgeway, Eugene Root, Lloyd Clinesmith, Wilma Surrarrer, Herbert Jones, Judith Williams and Virginia Robinson. We presented our Senior play "Wedding Spells," on December 5, 1941.

Even though independency was our key-work for three years, we changed it to cooperation in our Senior year and found that it works much better.

ORATORY

Our debates this year were on a more argumentive subject than last year. The question: Resolved: That all males between the ages of 18-25 should have one year of compulsory military training.

This was a very timely subject, considering the world situation and the attitude many people were taking toward the draft laws then.

Those participating on the teams were:

Affirmative:
1st--Bill Beard (1st debate) Ruth Herman (2nd debate)
2nd--Judith Williams
Alternate--Dorothe Yoder
Coach--Mr. Cmaylo

Negative:
1st--Joanna Grim
2nd--Ruth Herman (1st debate) Kenneth Koerber (2nd debate)
Alternate--Betty Herr
Coach--Miss Wright

On December 3rd the Affirmative team debated Seville at Hinckley and lost. The same day the Negative team lost to Westfield at Homer.

December 10th the Affirmative again journeyed to Hinckley this time winning over Hinckley Negative. The Chatham Negative took over Spencer Affirmative the same day at Chatham.

Considering everything, I believe I am correct in saying that all the debaters enjoyed every minute of time used in preparation and debating. We wish to express our thanks to our Coaches and to all the teachers who permitted us to work on our speeches during study halls and classes.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Chatham Student Council was invited to a district Council meeting at Lodi, on February 23. Since we didn't have a Student Council, officers of the different classes attended. After meeting in Lodi, we learned that a Student Council is a system in which the pupils have a say in the school government.

We organized a Student Council the following week. For the remainder of this school year the students in this Council consist of three officers from the four upper grades; one member from each the seventh & eighth grade; a representative from each the girls and boys athletic associations; and also one from the Girl Reserves and the Hi-Y.

Officers were appointed according to scholastics. They are as follows:

President------Rosemary Hofstetter
Vice President-Judith Williams
Sec. & Treas.--Helen Robinson

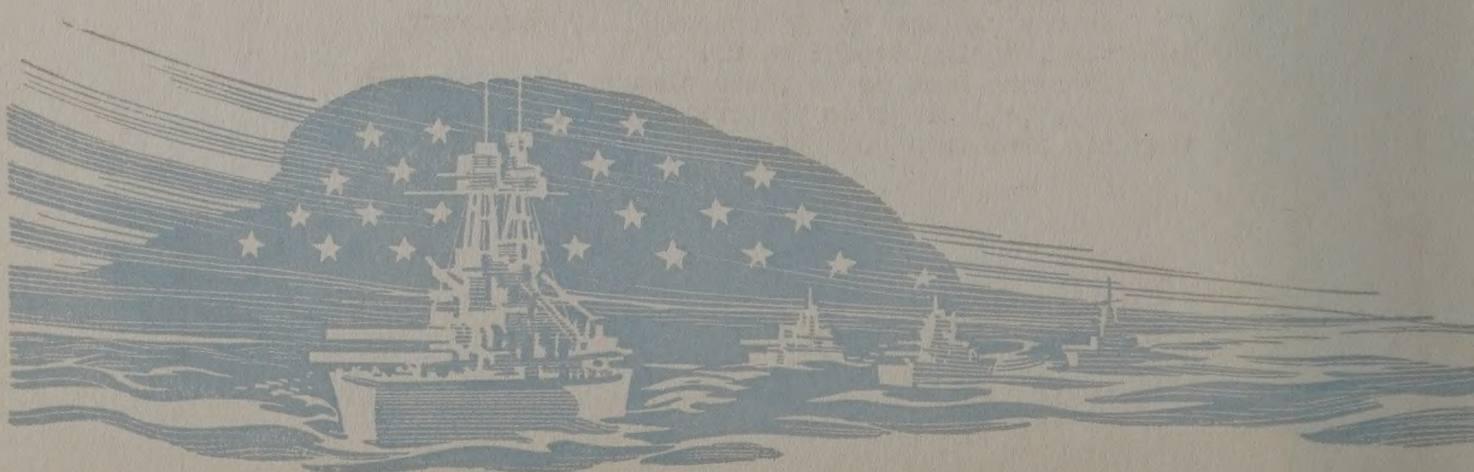
It was decided to hold our meetings at 3:00 on the second and fourth Fridays of every month.

Some of the things we have enforced are:

No lingering in halls between classes.

No one can use the telephone, only when very important, during school hours.

Everyone must be in their classes three minutes after the bell or go to detention hall. Unless they can produce a good excuse.



1942

SPORTS

Baseball

The past school year has witnessed the building of new teams in all sports, baseball, no exception. However more of the lettermen were left over in this field than in any other, so we have good reason to believe that this will be a good year for Coach CMaylo.

Unsettled weather kept the team from playing all the games scheduled in the fall; but the games which were played were a great success and scource of inspiration.

SPORTS

Varsity Basketball

When a team is down, but still fights on, it deserves credit. And so we give much credit to the basketball team of "41-42." Although the team did not turn in a record season they held their own ground and did a little better than last year.

Kenny Welsh, the only letterman held over from last year, led an inexperienced team over a rough schedule. Such a team was not expected to win, but the games lost were extremely close.

"Dutchy" Clinesmith is our "fighting guard". He did a great job of offensive and defensive.

"Whimpy" Jones, our 6 foot center, was up-an-at-'em all the time.

Bill "Joe" Beard, Johnny Yergin, and Rufus Roberts were in there breaking all the time. These last three players are the only one that will be back next year.

Junior Varsity Basketball

This team, organized for the purpose of giving the boys practice in actual games, came through the season with twelve wins to five defeats.

CHEERLEADERS

On November 14,1941 the student body elected the following cheerleaders: Rosemary Hofstetter, Phyllis Roberts, Ruth Herman, Agnes Hofstetter and Charlene Ridgeway. Charlene was elected as substitute.

It was decided that the substitute would get to lead two yells for each team at every game but this was not carried through.

For the first half of the year we used the same suits as last year. In January we replaced the long sleeved, white satin blouses with white LaConga sweaters. We made black and red megaphone emblems, which we wore on the front of our sweaters.

Three of the girls experienced their first year at cheerleading, which meant cooperation and hard work by all. It was Rosemary's second year but everything seemed new to her because many new yells were introduced this year and we changed motions to most of the old ones.

We did our best at all times and want to congratulate all the boys on their excellent work during the season.
